Submitted on 07 March 2016
by the Muslim Council of Britain (MCB)
for the World Interfaith Harmony Week 2016 Prize

1 Introduction

#VisitMyMosque day took place on Sunday 7th February 2016 in the UK. It is a national initiative facilitated by the Muslim Council of Britain (MCB) where over 80 mosques took part in simultaneously holding a mosque open day.

Mosques across England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland invited in neighbours to share tea and refreshments, alongside an insight into the day-to-day goings on of a busy Muslim centre of worship.

First conceived in February 2015 with about 20 mosques taking part, 2016 saw the initiative expand to over 80 mosques, achieving both increased geographic spread across the UK as well as increased press coverage in mainstream national and regional media, as well as social media.

2 Vision and Aims

Recognising the value derived to society from places of worship welcoming in visitors from other faith groups and no faith at all, the vision of #VisitMyMosque is for every mosque in Britain to hold an open day at least once a year.

In this way open days can become an effective tool for improving community cohesion and interfaith harmony.

Given that open days are nothing new and that many mosques in Britain have actually been holding open day events for years if not decades, #VisitMyMosque aimed to amplify the positive work already being performed by asking mosques to co-ordinate at least one of their open days per year on a single day: 'Visit My Mosque' day.

The specific aims of the #VisitMyMosque initiative in the UK are to:

1. Reduce the 'unknown' factor of members of the British public with their local mosque
2. Ease tensions caused by constant negative media attention towards Islam and Muslims.
3. Encourage members of the public to get to know their local mosque and meet their local mosque management committee (i.e. put a human face to the building etc.)
4. Encourage more mosque management committees to actively find ways to engage with their local neighbours and faith communities.
5. Celebrate the positive social work being performed by mosques in the UK.
6. Create positive media attention for British Muslim communities at national and local levels.

3 Summary of 2016

Once the date of Sunday 7th February was selected in early December 2015, mosques across the UK were contacted and invited to register their participation in the initiative.

Overall 84 mosques took part on Sunday 7th February, with a further 8 mosques holding open days on other days in February for logistical reasons (Total 92). The full list of the participating mosques - as well as their addresses and open day times - was published on the MCB website and publicised at:

www.mcb.org.uk/visitmymosque

The list was accompanied by a map and post code 'search' feature to assist the mosques with their publicity and to help members of the public to find their local mosque.

A full list of the 92 participating mosques is provided in the Appendix.

Participating mosques were provided with a “How To” guide containing general guidance on how to run an open day, as well as template invitation letters, press releases and poster. Mosques were encouraged to invite a wide range of visitors, including neighbouring residents, local faith group leaders, MPs, Councillors, Mayors, Schools and Teachers, Local charities organisations, Local businesses and shop owners, Police or police community liaison officers/Safer Neighbourhood team and Fire Brigade Officers. Some mosques had prior experience of running open days, while approximately a quarter of the mosques were holding an open day for the first time.

At a national level, MCB sent press releases to national and regional press prior to the day to generate interest and publicity, and media interviews were arranged. A promotional trailer video was also released, featuring short submitted clips from mosque congregations members saying “Visit my mosque, where... [insert mosque activity]”. This can be viewed here:

On the day, media launch events were held in four mosques in London, Glasgow, Cardiff and Leeds. At the media and VIP launch event at London Central Mosque, a range of interfaith speakers addressed the audience, including:

- Catriona Robertson, Interim Director of Christian Muslim Forum
- Mehri Niknam, Executive Director of Joseph Foundation

- Dr Ahmed Al-Dubayan, Director of Islamic Cultural Centre
- Dr Shuja Shafi, Muslim Council of Britain
- Reverend David Musgrave, Methodist Minister in Brixton and Streatham
- Harriet Crabtree, Director of the Inter Faith Network (IFN) for the UK

Each of the participating mosques arranged activities in line with the resources, capacity and needs of their local communities. The range of activities included:

- Guided mosque tours
- Exhibition or poster display
- Prayer observation
- Open Q&A session with the Imam
- Tea/coffee/refreshments
- Arabic calligraphy or “write your name in Arabic” stall
- “Try on a hijab” stall
- Bouncy castles/Kid’s corner

Mosque volunteers - male and female, young and old - were on hand during the day to meet and greet, talk to visitors and guide them around. In fact the majority of mosques reported significant participation of young volunteers and students aged 25 years old or younger taking part in running the open day.

Mosques were asked to share photos on social media via the hashtag #visitmymosque as well as encourage their visitors to post feedback using the same hashtag. Twitter was trending significantly throughout the day and afterwards.

The range of photos and comments posted before, during and after the day can be viewed online at:

<https://twitter.com/hashtag/visitmymosque>

A number of mosques attracted prominent civic and political leaders to attend, including Labour Party leader Jeremy Corbyn MP, and other Members of Parliament including Bob Blackman, Stella Creasey, Fabian Hamilton, Wes Streeting, James Flanagan, Rupa Huq, Sadiq Khan and Zac Goldsmith to name but a few.

4 Impact

4.1 Number of Visitors

Overall the 84 events engaged with thousands of Britons across a large geographic spread of the UK, contributing significantly towards the promotion of interfaith harmony and impacting religious understanding.

Some larger mosques such as Harper Road, East London Mosque and Manchester & Didsbury Mosque each attracted over 250 visitors on the day, while Finsbury Park Mosque attracted about 500 visitors. Many smaller mosques holding open days for the first time also attracted 100+ visitors each.

4.2 Intra-Faith Significance

The 92 participating mosques consisted of Muslim communities from the various schools of thought in Islam, including both Sunni and Shi’i traditions.

This shows that Muslims across all the various schools of thought are interested in showing that the sectarian violence occurring in some parts of the world has no place in the UK. And moreover, that Muslims in Britain from all the traditions are united in contributing towards a just, cohesive and harmonious British society where people of all faiths and no faith at all are respectful, tolerant and understanding of each other.

4.3 Historical Significance

Of the 92 mosques taking part, two of the oldest mosques in the UK, the Shah Jalal Mosque in Woking and the Abdullah Quilliam Mosque in Liverpool, both first opening in 1889, held open days. This indicates the historical significance of the Islam faith on the rich interfaith heritage of the UK. A number of the largest and most-established mosques in the UK, such as London Central Mosque, the East London Mosque and the Birmingham Central Mosque also took part.

4.4 Press Coverage

Had such a lovely day today down at the open day at the mosque. I got to learn so much about this beautiful religion, my name written in Arabic, henna and even got to try on some beautiful headscarfs. Anyone who was ridden with ignorance to not attend, I feel sorry for you. Everyone was so friendly and lovely and it was a great experience. Why pass up the opportunity to learn something new?

5 Feedback

Two types of feedback were collected: (1) From visitors to each mosque and (2) from mosque organisers to MCB

(1) From Visitors: Mosques were provided with template feedback form to use at their events. The events were well-received by visitors with a wide range of positive feedback. Many visitors were visiting mosques for the first time. Many reported that they had visited mosques abroad whilst on holiday in Turkey, Malaysia or other countries, but never in the UK, and found comparing the differences and similarities in mosque architecture, form and function fascinating.

Other visitors such as local interfaith leaders with a prior existing relationship with the mosque management found it a useful opportunity to catch up with developments in the local area. Some visitors went out of their way to praise mosque volunteers, for example MP for Ealing North, Steve Pound, wrote a letter to the Ealing Gazette, praising West London Islamic Centre volunteers for their hospitality and welcoming atmosphere at their open day (See Section 8)

(2) From Mosque Organisers: Organisers were asked to complete a 10minute online survey immediately after 7th February here: www.tinyurl.com/VisitMyMosque2016-Feedback . Overall many mosques were pleased at the level of interest generated locally and nationally in the initiative and requested more help with publicising the events nationally next year.

Many mosques reported visitors who had travelled long distances to visit their nearest mosque (for example visitors to Aberdeen came from as far as Peterhead, and in Birmingham they came from as far as Worcester), indicating the level of effort some members of the public were willing to go to, to engage with this national event. Mosque organisers also reported that mosque volunteers, in particular the youth volunteers, gained valuable experience in organising an event, understanding the value of outreach work and engaging with their local neighbours and communities from other faiths.

6 Testimonials

Testimonials from several high profile attendees are provided below:

Zac Goldsmith MP said: "Visit My Mosque Day is a hugely effective way of breaking down barriers and increasing community engagement and it was a pleasure meeting members of the centre."

Sadiq Khan MP said: "Great to see mosques across London opening their doors all day on #visitmymosque day"

Jeremy Corbyn MP whilst visiting his local mosque in North London said: "The people visiting Finsbury Park Mosque today, the nearest mosque to where I live, are Jewish, Christian, Hindu, Muslim or have no particular faith. We're here to support this mosque and to show that our community is very united in our diversity."

Steven Pound MP writing in the Ealing Gazette said: "My sincere congratulations to all at the West London Islamic Centre, West Ealing, for organising the mosque open day and afternoon tea on Sunday 7 February. Many myths of the Muslims faith were dispelled and everyone that I spoke to welcomed this generous and openhearted gesture by the mosque trustees that showed me a confident community engaging positively with people of all faiths in a spirit of mutual respect."

Robert Buckland MP whilst visiting his local mosque in Swindon said: "I am delighted to have been invited here. It's a really positive step to open their doors to the public to show what they do for Swindon. Anything which helps to increase social cohesion is bound to be a good thing."

Gareth Thomas MP whilst visiting his local mosque in London said: "This is a great initiative by the Muslim Council of Britain. There's a great crowd here tonight from all faiths coming along to visit the mosque. The interfaith work that the community does here is really quite impressive. You may think it is your mosque but actually it is my mosque too."

7 Plans for 2017

#VisitMyMosque is planned to continue in 2017 as an annual initiative, increasing in the number of participating mosques each year.

Mosques will be encouraged to find new and innovative ways to engage with their neighbours and local communities of other faiths or no faith at all. Regional training workshops will be organised on running interfaith events for volunteers. Standardised #VisitMyMosque printed literature is planned to be provided.

Ideas are being developed to encourage mosque members to additionally arrange visits to their local Church, Synagogue, Temple, Gurdwara or other place of worship in advance of the next #VisitMyMosque day. Finally more targeted social media and local advertising will also be used to help reach even more members of the public, thereby further contributing to steps towards increasing community cohesion across British society.

Ends.
