

REFERENCE

Arco Forum is an entity committed to defending and promulgating universal human values such as respect, tolerance and love of neighbor.

It is, in fact, an association much devoted to interreligious dialogue as they are convinced of knowledge and approach among believers of different religions to enable effective collective work in order to bring to the world a new vision that humankind should adopt as a proper course of action.

All modern societies, especially those of the first world, go through a social and identity crisis, that is why we find a new resurgence of political movements that reject multiculturalism and see the strange or the foreign as a danger or threat.

ARCO FORUM want to work and do its bit in this immense project that concerns us all, so that people of different religions and cultures join forces in the interest of revitalizing values that rank people higher than fauna: the human.

That has been their project in which they have invested their time and their capacities. It is an association that undoubtedly aspires to more and with additional institutional support could provide much more, manifest more clearly their devotion and dedication to this beautiful and needed project, with more activities that reach a greater number of people in society and disseminate more extensively the ideas on which they work and to which they are committed.

May God help them.
