To whom it may concern,

Our Hindu scripture starts with a wonderful prayer: “Om bhadram karnebhihi shrunuyam devaha.” It means, “May we hear and see only that is auspicious.” If we ask ourselves, “What do we want to hear? Or what do we want to see?” The answer is coming from the World Alliance of Religions’ Peace Office. ‘The people on this planet are anxious to see and hear good news of the alliance of religions, cessation of wars and fulfillment of peace.’

HWPL, IWPG and IPYG are umbrellas where leaders from various faiths come together, having in-depth understanding about religion as a whole for the entire universe and humanity on a very wide horizon. Credit goes to the chairman, His Holiness Man Hee Lee, who made it clear in our minds that ‘Religions belong to the Heavens, and the World is what governs the things of the earth. If mankind were to face its destruction, who would be there to save us? It is the responsibility on the shoulders of messengers like religious leaders solely to bring religious conflict to an end. If we unite, God will certainly acknowledge our endeavors.’

Every one of us is indebted to these precious words.

Here is what I learned after associating with the rest of the religious leaders: ‘God the creator and Satan the spirit of betrayal have been at war for many centuries.’ So we have to be very careful about what we practice and what we preach. Let us set aside biased opinions, prejudice and self-righteous assertions altogether. Let us become real advocates of the Peace Mission and achieve everlasting Universal Peace. Thanks.

Yours Truly,

Nikhil N. Trivedi
