World Interfaith Harmony Week: World Premiere of 'Unforgotten'

In preparation for World Interfaith Harmony Week myself, and a Russian Gypsy composer worked tirelessly to create an original piece of music 'Unforgotten' dedicated to all the children who lost their childhoods or lives because of extreme hatred and discrimination. Interfaith Scotland initiated this, worked with us to organise a fitting world premiere for the music and arranged for diverse faith communities to attend the concert.

Together we worked with school pupils from across Scotland, young performers from the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland and diverse musicians and musical instruments – celebrating diversity of faith, culture, background, creativity and love of God and neighbour. Russian children were chosen to take part in a moving ceremony to remember the children of history and current day who are suffering because of hatred. This was a highlight moment of my career and I wish to thank Interfaith Scotland for helping to make this happen and wish them well in the World Interfaith Harmony Week competition.

Kind regards,
